

Scientific Program

Thursday 1 July 2010

0830 – 1600	Basic Ultrasound Workshop This structured, integrated and interactive ultrasound workshop aims to provide the theoretical and practical skills required to assist midwives and GPs to appropriately date pregnancies, assess fetal wellbeing and diagnose intrauterine first trimester gestations. The objective is train practitioners who currently provide maternity care in geographically remote locations and have no prior ultrasound experience. The workshop is introductory in its scope and, on completion further training will be required to achieve competence to practice independently. (Places are limited to 10 remote midwives and 10 remote GP's.) Facilitated by Janet Vaughan, RANZCOG. The workshop program has been designed to accommodate midwives and rural GP's with limited experience in ultrasound practice. Sponsored by Sonosite	Alice Springs Hospital
0830 - 1600	RANZCOG Fetal Surveillance Education Program RANZCOG is committed to improving fetal surveillance by delivering clinical education to health professionals involved in intrapartum and antenatal care. The FSEP aims to provide a cost-effective suite of products, targeted specifically to meet the learning needs of clinicians across Australia and New Zealand and the need to address the risk management requirements of participating institutions in the area of fetal surveillance. Workshop includes case studies and discussion time and addresses: Physiology of fetal heart rate, Normal CTG's, Maternal monitoring, The complete clinical picture, Abnormal CTG's, Interpretation, Management. (Places are limited to 50 attendees – midwives and doctors.) Facilitated by Mark Beaves, RANZCOG. Sponsored by FESP, RANZCOG	Ellery A
0830 - 1600	Indigenous Cultural Awareness Workshop Facilitated by Aboriginal people this workshop provides an introduction to the cultural beliefs and ways of the Central Australian Aboriginal people giving practitioners an opportunity to think about how this might affect their practice. After lunch the group will split into women's and men's groups to learn about women's and men's business respectively in relation to health, children and family. For women there will be an opportunity to visit Congress Alukura, an Aboriginal women birth and health centre. (Places are limited to 30 women) Facilitated by Rachael Lockey, ACM	Ellery B
0830 - 1600	Normal Birth Workshop Intervention rates in maternity care in Australia are following worldwide trends, with a seemingly inexorable rise in the caesarean section rate, and also variably high rates of induction of labour, epidural anaesthesia and operative vaginal birth. Despite good national and international evidence showing the benefits of one on one midwifery care during labour, few maternity hospitals have been able to achieve this goal, with few women meeting the midwife who will provide her labour care, and even fewer women having any contact with a known midwife postpartum. One of the main components of the rising caesarean section rates is a low uptake of vaginal birth after caesarean section (VBAC), and rates of this continue to fall nationally. This workshop will explore the above issues and look at ways that current practices may be changed to promote better birth experiences for women and more normal outcomes. (Places are limited to 50 attendees – open to all delegates.) Facilitated by Ted Weaver, RANZCOG, Dr. Paul Ruewer (The Netherlands) & Helen Cooke, ACM Sponsored by NSW Health	Ellery C
